

ROYAL SOUVENIR OF INDIA

INDIA'S great monarchies millennia back crafted a magnificent artifact for leisure and stress relief. The culture of smoking hookah originated in the vibrant enriching boundaries of Gujarat and Rajasthan where the royal emperors used coconut shell as a base and a tube with a head attached. Such primitive hookahs were designed to smoke and relax.

Smoking hookah became a popular culture when Arabs invaded parts of Asia. The royal dynasties used wooden, crafted hookahs with various paintings and statuettes crafted on the base. Dark tobaccos from Iran became an important ingredient of hookahs for strong flavour.

Arabian Nights Aluminium Foil:

Thick foils are used to cover ceramic bowls/chillums with burning charcoal on top and molasses inside to preserve the aroma and resist heat.

SOEX Quick Lite Charcoal Tablets:

These are high-quality smokeless, odourless charcoal tablets, which burn slowly and evenly for more than an hour. For best results use Soex Quick Lite hookah charcoal tablets which are specifically meant for hookah smoking.

Arabian Nights Setting Trends:

Conversations remain almost incomplete without the rich aromatic experience known to us as 'hookah'. From a symbol of royal pride and honour, the hookah has eventually evolved as a popular youth culture. Today parties and reunions are incomplete without the H o o k a h experience. Most of us know it by the name Shisha, a mixture of tobacco, distilled water with fruit extracts and flavors.

Going Global:

With its strong retail presence across all major Indian metros, Arabian Nights is poised to launch its first international outlet in Malaysia.
